1. In early 1953 an unidentified Soviet army unit, allegedly about the size of a regiment, was quartered in Malbork (Marienburg). Soldiers of the unit wore black epaulets with a red border. No further details were available. An army telephone line ran from Malbork to Sztum (Stuhm).
2. During the summer of 1952 a Soviet training area for armored troops and artillery units was located outside Drawsko (O 53/R 50). An undetermined number of Soviet soldiers was observed in Drawsko, and Soviet tanks and artillery pieces were seen in the training area.
